Sustainability in the Supply Chain Bosch and the Responsible Supply Chain Initiative (RSCI)

Dear business partner,

For Bosch, following the principle of legality and practicing business responsibility has always been priority.

Ethical values and sustainable practices are an essential element of this responsibility and you as our partner in the supply chain have a significant contribution.

In a further step towards shared values, Bosch has joined the Responsible Supply Chain Initiative (RSCI), a standard developed under the VDA governance for the automotive industry.

By passing an assessment, companies will gain the RSCI label, demonstrating their Social Responsibility Compliance. RSCI certification enables suppliers to comply with legal requirements, such as Due Diligence Act and sets new standards for sustainability of the automotive industry. Our future supplier selection and sourcing decisions will take the label into account, as evidence of sustainable and socially responsible business.

Human rights along the supply chain are an essential part of Bosch's target vision as well as requirements stated in our Code of Conduct for Business Partners.

SUSTAINABILITY 2025

Companies are required to take actions to comply with existing or lately introduced LEGISLATIONS.

Sustainability is of growing importance in CUSTOMER REQUIREMENTS.

ONE STANDARD

RSCI to become the standard for social auditing in automotive.

RSCI

The Responsible Supply Chain Initiative focuses on human rights, social and environmental standards

“Never forget your humanity, and respect human dignity in your dealings with others”
